

When I introduced Louis Graves, editor and publisher of the Nashville News, as the speaker at the employe-employer party in Hope last Thursday night I thought I was dealing with an ex-captain of the U. S. Marines. But after the party I found that Louis' war experiences covered a range even wider than that of a Marine.

Here's a sample story by the Nashville editor:

Back in 1943 Graves was a navigator flying for the Chinese Air Force. His Mitchell medium bomber (B-25) was assigned to hunting down and destroying Japanese cargo ships in the South China Sea.

The bomber spotted and sank a Jap oil tanker, but not before the enemy vessel had gotten off an SOS signal. This posed the problem of how the American fliers, entirely without fighter escort, were going to get their bomber back to its China mainland base without being knocked off by angry Jap pilots.

Graves said, however, that the success of General Chennault had been built on a network of intelligence. The American commander of the Chinese Air Force had native spies around every Japanese flying field.

The result was that almost immediately a Chinese hidden in a cave near the coast radioed that Jap fighters had taken off to intercept the bomber on the course it would normally follow in returning to its home base.

The bomber zig-zagged far off its beaten path, crossed the China coastline without sighting a single Jap fighter and landed at its base with but five minutes' gas supply remaining.

It was a hair-raising story — not the least remarkable fact being that despite the difficulties of language the Chinese underground got their message through to the American bomber crew fast and accurately.

Sunday papers reported that North Little Rock has applied to the federal government for a $450,000 grant to construct three new school buildings.

"Grant" means "for free." And news of North Little Rock's action will be received with a sense of outrage by all of Arkansas which lies outside the capital city area.

Little Rock will say, of course, that we are simply "feuding" with "em, but the fact is every conscientious American knows we'll never get federal taxes reduced as long as we keep asking for federal hand-outs, particularly for public schools whose support and control have always been the traditional job of the local community.

In this particular case North Little Rock figures that the proposed jet bomber base will put an additional load on her public schools and she wants a special school grant to go along with the 100-million-dollar base. But judging from the tenacity with which the Little Rock area pumped for this military work it must mean a good deal to the business people and property owners of the metropolitan area.

Well, then, let the Little Rock area apply a just share of school taxes to the people who will benefit above and beyond what the people of the rest of Arkansas and the United States will benefit.

We are getting plenty fed up with public officials whose conscience is so tender they just can't bear to tax the local public for local benefits. The rest of Arkansas wouldn't give a dime's federal aid to the Little Rock area for bomber-base schools — because any one of us knows Little Rock or any other town can always raise sufficient school money when it has to.

Italy Accepts 5-Power Parley on Trieste

ROME (UP) — Italy today officially announced acceptance "without conditions" of the Big Three proposal for a five-power conference to settle the explosive Trieste situation.

This action by the Italian government apparently paves the way to a speedy solution of the Trieste problem which has been a cause of bitter dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia.

The foreign office confirmed United Press reports that Italy had accepted, saying that "We've given the green light for the conference." Officials added that Italy accepted "without conditions" and is ready for a conference "at any time."

It was evident that the Italians now feel it is up to Yugoslavia as to whether or not there is a conference.

Premier Giuseppe Pella announced over the weekend that his government was ready to discuss the Trieste issue at a conference with the United States, Great Britain, France and Yugoslavia.

But since the text of Pella's reply had not been passed on to the Yugoslav government at that time officials in Belgrade were chary of comment pending its reply.

However, Yugoslav officials did say that Pella's proposal would be "completely unacceptable" if any prior conditions were attached. They also recalled Yugoslavia's determination to march if Italian troops enter zone A of the Trieste free territory.

Trieste previously had said it would attend a Trieste conference only if it received Zone A as promised by the United States and Britain.

Before making the official announcement, the Italian foreign office said only that Pella's reply to the Big Three proposal was "positive and constructive."

Makes Boyle Uneasy to Hear Woman Praise Man, He Figures the Fellow Is Failing Fast

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (UP) — It always used to make me uneasy when I heard a woman praise a man.

I figured the poor fellow was either already under a tombstone or failing rapidly.

But lately—well, I just don't know. Women are saying so many nice things about men they are getting calluses on their vocal cords.

"It doesn't mean a thing except we're getting closer to Christmas," one gentleman cynic told me. "The average woman's disposition begins to improve just before Thanksgiving."

"By the first of December she is acting like a human being. By the middle of the month, as Santa Claus gets nearer and nearer, you can see a halo over her head in a dim room."

"But soon after she gets her Christmas loot, the sweetness and light vanish, and the normal bark and bite come back into her voice."

U. S. Bankruptcy Suit on Carroll

A petition to declare Robert Carroll, operator of the Diamond cafe here, bankrupt was filed by his creditors in U. S. District Court at Tex. arkana, Arkansas, last Friday. The cafe was closed earlier this month.

Federal Board Rejects Hiss Appeal

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U. S. Federal parole board today rejected the appeal for the second time of the application of Alger Hiss for a parole from the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison.

Hiss, former State Department official serving a five-year term for perjury, was first denied a parole last November.

The board's reconsideration of the application was automatic.

Dr. Paul Tappan, chairman of the federal parole board announced the board's action in one sentence statement which said:

"The board of parole today automatically reconsidered the parole application of Alger Hiss and agreed there should be no change in a previous order of denial of parole."

Tappan did not give any reasons for the board's action or state whether the action was unanimous, as was the original denial.

Hiss was convicted of perjury in 1950 after denying he ever slipped secret State Department documents to Whittaker Chambers, confessed former courier for a Soviet spy ring.

He began serving his sentence in March, 1951. He applied for a parole last year as soon as he was eligible for one.

Parole applications are kept in a pending status and can be reviewed at any time.

Even without a parole, Hiss will be released automatically in November, 1954, by a cumulating time off for good behavior.

He has been described as a "model prisoner."

Mechanical Engraver Given Demonstration in Today's Star by Fairchild Company

The Star was visited today by a factory van demonstrating one of the world's newest mechanical marvels—the Fairchild Scan-A-Graver—which makes newspaper picture printing plates on an electronic lathe.

All pictures in today's edition were made this morning and the application of the Scan-A-Graver machine to the noon hour on-the-Cadet model of the Fairchild company operating in the commodious van which had parked in South about street at the newspaper plant.

The photographs are from Shipley studio except an original "shot" by Norman Emerson, factory man in charge of the Fairchild van—who photographed The Star's managing editor, Paul H. Jones, and bookkeeper, Mrs. Eris Beasley Bolk.

and Clarence Chapman, Fairchild district salesman who lives at Jackson, Miss. This particular photograph was snapped, developed, and printed, and an engraving made, all in less than two hours made, could be stepped up to just one hour if necessary.

The Fairchild company, which now has these mechanical engraving machines leased to more than 1,400 newspapers in the United States and Canada, developed the first practical device to supersede the standard but slow and costly photo-chemical process of making newspaper picture printing plates.

The Fairchild machine looks like a high-class lathe with two drums mounted on the shaft. Around one drum is wrapped a photograph, and the other a blank piece of plastic. A photo-electric eye scans the photograph as the latter slowly turns, and on the opposite drum an electrically-heated stylus bites the plastic plate—creating the depth (or relief) which is necessary to make a photograph print on the newspaper press.

The quality of the Fairchild machine's work can be judged by the pictures in this newspaper. One plate with a fuzzy look is charged to a bad photograph, not the engraving machine.

Dean Dares China to Invite Russia

PNNMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — American Envoy Arthur H. Dean challenged the Communists today to invite Russia to the Korean peace conference as a co-belligerent in the Korean war.

"We want the U.S.S.R. there as a full participant with full responsibility," Dean told Red diplomats.

Dean issued his challenge in the straw and mud negotiation hut as an answer to the Communist insistence that Asian neutrals and the Soviet offer their "good offices" to settling the Korean problem.

Red Chinese and North Korean negotiators have emphatically defended Russia's neutrality in the Korean war, but Dean took a different view.

"Of course the U.S.S.R. would be on your side as the participant," the American diplomat told his Red counterparts.

Dean said Russia should be seated under the provisions of paragraph 60 of the armistice agreement, which limits conference membership to nations which fought in Korea.

"I again urge you to agree to holding of the conference as provided in paragraph 60 plus the addition of the U.S.S.R. to your side," Dean said.

Probe of State Books Called a 'Witch Hunt'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Labels of "witch hunt" and "McCarthyism" yesterday were fastened to the Arkansas Legislative Council's investigation of 15 books suspected of so-called leftist writings.

The council has directed its Education Committee to review the books in a meeting here Dec. 10.

The probe was instituted following a report by Education Commissioner Arch Ford that 19 Arkansas colleges and 13 of the state's high schools are using 15 of 3 volumes listed in a study of sociology textbooks.

A University of Pennsylvania professor, Dr. A. H. Hobbs, said 33 of the 83 texts contained objectionable leftist writings but he did not specify which of the 83 he objected to.

Rep. L. H. Autry, Burdette superintendent of schools and Governor Cherry's representative on the council, said the investigation "is harmful in that it tends to create distrust in government and education."

Terming the probe a "witch hunt," Autry said he considered the list of "questionable" books "a list of 'Questionable' books."

Sen. Tom Allen of Brinkley, and Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County, both council members, also objected to the investigation.

Dalsen said the council has enough work to do "without getting into the censorship business."

Sen. Allen said the investigation was "rather useless," adding:

"De Queen — A local option election proposed to restore legal liquor sales in Sevier county will be held December 9. County Judge J. C. Weller said he signed the election order 'reluctantly' because he didn't think the wets had a chance to win 'but the law is quite plain on the matter and I have no other choice.'"

A petition had been presented to him signed by more than the required 15 per cent of qualified electors requesting that the election be called.

Sevier voted out legal sales after 10 years as a wet county on December 31, 1946, and rejected the legal sale proposal again on July 10, 1949. In both elections the dry margin was only slightly less than two to one.

Commissioner Harry J. Anglinger told a Senate subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency that "coincidental with the development and spread of teen-age addiction, the average prison sentence given to the seller of narcotics was only 18 months."

It is now 42 months, he said, adding that stiffer penalties for suppliers "has been our best weapon in suppressing the narcotic traffic."

Anglinger gave this summation of present conditions:

"As a combined result of our intensified efforts, we are now able to report a positive proof of a decrease in the availability of drugs and a consequent drop in addiction of youths under 21."

The number of juvenile patients being treated for addiction has declined and fewer juvenile users are coming to the attention of the authorities. The problem remains serious, of course, as long as there are any youthful addicts."

Out of 35,000 cases of juvenile delinquency of all kinds in 1951—robbery, sex crimes, and all other — between one and two per cent were narcotic offenses, Anglinger said.

Oglesby Students Observe Nat'l Book Week

National Book week observed by all grades in Oglesby School last week.

Mrs. Reeves' first grade class read about "Our Little Book Friend" and enjoyed telling stories. Thanksgiving was combined with book week by Mrs. Williams' grade by making booklets and exhibiting books which students had read.

The third grade, directed by Mrs. Welshberger, placed covers of favorite books on the bulletin board. In a reading contest cheryle Nutt and Sharon Kay Green tied with 43 books each. Two stories were dramatized.

By observing book week in connection with its English Mrs. Messer's room made booklets showing parts of a book. The week's study was climaxed Friday p. m. with two plays given by Mrs. Ward's fourth grade and Mrs. Frieck's sixth grade.

Posters and book reviews that had been made during the week made a colorful display on the stage. The fourth grade presented "Books Are Fun" and the sixth grade, "Roger Levens a Lesson."

Greenlease Not to See Execution

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — Robert C. Greenlease, father of slain kidnap victim Bobby Greenlease, said today that he would not witness the execution of the child's murderers.

"Certainly I am not going to attend the execution," he said in reply to a question regarding speculation that he might watch the gas chamber deaths of the kidnapers Carl Austin Hall, 34, and Bonnie Brown Hickey, 41.

The two will die in the Missouri State gas chamber at the penitentiary at Jefferson City shortly after midnight Dec. 18.

Greenlease also revealed that he had received a communication from Hall in which he said he was sorry.

The 71-year-old millionaire Cadillac distributor declined to elaborate on the method used in obtaining the communication or as to what other information it contained.

"I have had a communication from Hall in which he said he was sorry," Greenlease said. "But I can't discuss details of it at this time."

Greenlease attended all sessions of Hall's and Mrs. Hickey's trial here last week, which ended in a jury recommending to Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves that he sentence them to death. The judge complied immediately.

The kidnapers were taken to death row in the penitentiary the next day, following a conference between Judge Reeves and Hall's defense counsel, Roy K. Dietrich, at which it was agreed that no appeal would be made.

Judge Reeves said at the same time that Harold Hall, Mrs. Hickey's attorney, told him he also planned no appeal.

Local Case Is Reversed by High Court

By LEON HATCH
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today set aside a $7,500 judgment against the Arkansas Power and Light Co. in the death of a Highway Department worker.

The Court majority said there was no evidence that negligence by the power company was responsible for the electrocution of Henry Lum on Sept. 14, 1951.

Lum was working with a Highway Department crew when a dragging line he was operating touched a charged line owned by AP&L.

Hunt of Sex Slayer Spreads in Japan

By STAN CARTER
SAGAMIHARA, Japan (AP)—Army investigators said today they were stumped in the vicious slayings of the 9-year-old daughter of an American colonel.

However, they suggested the killer may have been someone she knew and trusted.
The killing left a haze of fear.

Foolish Worry

Dear Miss Dix: Six months ago I married a divorced man. I had nothing to do with breaking up his home, since he had been divorced for some time before we met. I had no children. Now we are expecting a baby and everything should be very joyous for us. He is a wonderful husband, devoted and considerate. My difficulty is that I feel guilty being married to a divorced man. I keep thinking that if I hadn't come into the picture he and his wife might have been reconciled. I don't know whether or not to give him up now. He insists I'm being foolish, that there never was a real love between his wife and him, that his love for me is the real thing, etc. But I just can't be convinced. Incidentally they had been married three years.

Conditions Fraught With Misgivings

Answer: Your emotional stress probably all revolves around your pregnancy. It is a time when many women experience doubts and uncertainties even when there's no ground for them. Then, you have the added aggravation of being a second wife which is another condition almost always fraught with misgivings. To top it all off with a guilty complex is putting a tremendous strain on your morale. Since you had nothing to do with breaking up your husband's marriage, you have done nothing to cause you to feel guilty. The possibility that he might have returned to his first wife is so highly problematical that it's for you to waste time dwelling on it. Turn your thoughts, instead, to the baby you are soon to have, or if her jealousy shows, ignore it.

over this huge U. S. Army housing area, which usually ring with the shouts and laughter of playing children.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday for pretty, red-haired Susan Rothschild, whose gagged body was found in a drainage ditch shortly after dark Saturday by her father, Col. Jacquard H. Rothschild.

Her face and neck had numerous bruises and scratches, Army doctors reported after an autopsy, but "there was no evidence of rape or attempted rape."

Investigators for the Army's Criminal Investigation Division (CID), however, did not discount the possibility of an attempted sex crime by a killer frightened away before he could violate the child.

An Army spokesman said investigators had found no clues to what the Army termed a "brutal, vicious murder" and that it was holding no suspects.

"Usually in a case like this," said one CID agent, "you soon find some small thing as a starting point in your investigation. But so far in this case we must still find that something."

Meanwhile, frightened parents in this suburban-type housing development were conveying their children to and from school, making them stay indoors or within the confines of their own yards. A children's snackbar hangout, usually crowded with youngsters after school, was empty.

One Army source pointed out that "crimes such as this against children are very rare in Japan." It was a veiled indication that investigators may be searching for an American youth or man as the killer.

Philadelphia Cracks Down on Teenagers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Determined Philadelphia police — deluged with complaints of rowdiness by youthful mobs in recent weeks — drove ahead with a crackdown on teen-age gangs today after rounding up more than 1,000 youngsters over the weekend.

Capt. Howard E. Leary of the Juvenile Aid Bureau and Police Commissioner Thomas J. Gibbons said the police will "harass and hunt these gangs until they make up their mind to settle down, be good citizens and stop bothering others."

The comments came in the wake of the unprecedented weekend roundup which saw 625 youngsters taken into custody from one police division in the northern section of the city while raiding squads in other parts of Philadelphia brought in more than 100 boys and girls. Gibbons said increasing complaints of beatings, holdups, and robberies by young toughs "who hang around sleazy poolrooms, taprooms and all-night diners instead of staying at home and doing something constructive" prompted the crackdown.

Inspector John F. Discoli headed a special detail of 90 policemen and 21 policewomen who picked up the teenagers.

India to Ask Un to Step Into Stalemate

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — A diplomatic informant in the U. S. disclosed today that Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya is preparing to ask the U. N. General Assembly to step into the Korean prison repatriation stalemate.

The source said that the Indian chief of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission in Korea has completed a lengthy report, giving all sides of the repatriation deadlock. The report is expected here late this week.

One copy is going to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld. He will circulate it to all U. N. members, opening up the question for another heated debate.

The informant said it is understood Thimayya's report will make no judgment on the deadlock, which in its latest phase has halted prisoner explanations for a week. But he said it would put the whole question in the hands of the Assembly for decision.

The Communists failed to convince 87 per cent of the Chinese and North Korean prisoners they have interviewed that they should return to Red territory. They halted the explanations on a technicality.

About 20,000 of the 22,000 prisoners captured by the U. N. forces remain to be questioned.

Thimayya's report, it was said, will carry statements by the Polish and Czechoslovak representatives on the repatriation commission who support the Communists; by the Swiss and Swedish delegates; and a review by Thimayya himself.

There was no advance indication what, if anything, Thimayya's report would say about the conflicting views of India's Prime Minister Nehru and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles on the future of the prisoner.

Nehru has said that, unless the Korean political conference gets under way, the U. N. and Communist commands must again negotiate the disposition of those prisoners who still refuse to go back to Communist territory on next Jan. 22, the end of the 120-day period of explanations and conference provided by the armistice agreement.

Dulles contends prisoners still held on that date should be released as civilians to go where they wish.

The Thimayya report is expected to be made public here about the time the U. N. Political Committee is ready to begin debate on the Korean question in its debate.

The committee was involved again today in discussion of Russia's long-standing proposals for atom and hydrogen bomb prohibition and slashing armaments by a third. That discussion was expected to go through Wednesday—with the plan due for another overwhelming defeat.

In a brief Thanksgiving holiday session Thursday, the committee hopes to get rid of the question of moving unwanted Nationalist Chinese guerrilla bands out of Burma.

The 60-nation Assembly plans plenary sessions next Friday and Saturday to debate U. S. atrocity charges against the Communist Chinese and North Koreans. A 150-page "white paper" will be distributed to delegates before the sessions to furnish additional ammunition for the major policy speech U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. is writing.

Smog Lifts But Leaves Eight Dead

NEW YORK A thick, dirty haze that choked metropolitan New York for six days cleared today, but left tragedy in its wake. Last night, with the city still shrouded in fumes, grime, smoke and fog, a small private plane crashed at La Guardia Field, killing five persons.

Three others died yesterday and early today in automobile accidents blamed on the dense pall of mist and industrial smoke hanging over the city.

A steady rain in the early morning hours washed the air comparatively clean, giving New Yorkers their first heartening breath of air in nearly a week.

May had developed cases of hay-fever-like sneezing and irritated noses and throats during the period of atmospheric gloom.

The plane, which carried two men, a woman and two children to death, apparently had undershot the La Guardia landing strip because of low visibility. The plane piled up on the edge of the field.

It was not discovered until this morning.

The early-morning rain also routed a smoky fog that had hung over the New England coast, hampering sea and air travel.

The weather bureau said a cold front from the west was bringing relief to smog-smeared fog-haz sufferers in the northeastern United States.

Initial relief in the metropolitan area came late yesterday when a brisk southeast breeze thrust aside the smog, and smog-replacing it with a curtain of moist, but clear fog.

The weather bureau said most of the fog had given way to rains early today.

Smog haze mixed with noxious city smoke—first made throats tingle and eyes smart during the days of misty weather. Smog—fog mixed with smoke—set in Saturday.

The U. N. Security Council planned a brief meeting today to discuss another postponement of any council action on Trieste while the Western Big Three, Yugoslavia and Italy continue negotiations to hold a five-power parity on the disputed territory's future.

The council comes back tomorrow to hear Arab demands for a resolution condemning Israel in stronger terms than the Western Big Three proposed as a result of the Israeli raid on the Jordanian village of Kibya Oct. 14, in which 53 Arabs were killed. Israel has protested even the British-French-U. S. resolution.

Peace Group Gets Small Cold War

By CARL HARTMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A kind of bush league cold war, between Peru and the Colombian Embassy at Lima, has been laid in the lap of the Inter-American Peace Committee.

In a diplomatic note incorporating details, Colombian Foreign Minister Evaristo Sauris asked the five-nation committee — the United States, Cuba, Argentina, Chile and Brazil—to do something about it.

The trouble, said Sauris, all started on Jan. 3, 1949, when Victor Raúl Haya de la Torre, a Peruvian political leader known as a left-winger but not a Communist, sought and gained asylum at the embassy.

The Peruvian Police were after him for his part in a revolution that failed—a predicament most Latin Americans sympathize with. The Colombians did. But not Peru.

All sorts of things, said Sauris, began to happen:

Workmen came, saying they had to make sewer repairs, dug a ditch around the embassy and went away. But the ditches are still there. One diplomat's car got stuck behind them for months.

Searchlights illuminate the building all night, making sleep—difficult enough, what with motorcycle patrols zooming around—practically impossible. Not long ago some men entered the garden and trimmed the trees. The branches interfered with the searchlights, they said.

Nobody goes in or out — they can't drive up because of the ditches—unless he identifies himself to the Peruvian police, who occupy neighboring houses.

Peru's official position hasn't been expounded recently. But in a polite official note to his Colombian colleague last summer, Peruvian Foreign Minister Ricardo Rivera Schreiber wrote:

Keeping Troop in Europe Is Disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators

Wickenloper (R-Iowa) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) disagreed today on whether the United States should make any commitment to retain its troops in Europe as a spur to approval of a European Defense Community.

Both members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee expect the issue to come before Congress in some form. They said there are obvious indications it will be brought up by the French at the Big Three conference in Europe. But he said he recognizes that Western European nations might be in sight. Wilson's statement caused such a furor abroad that President Eisenhower and Secretary State Dulles made re-

Wickenloper said he was opposed to binding this country to what might turn out to be indefinite maintenance of troops in Germany. He emphasized he was not talking about the manning of U. S. bases abroad.

"I wouldn't support any commitment to leave America in forces in Europe for any specified length of time," the Iowa senator said. "I make any commitment to retain our troops in Europe as a spur to approval of a European Defense Community."

"I'd like to see some clear-cut demonstration of more vigor on the part of the European nations themselves," he said.

Humphrey agreed that he doesn't like the idea of having American troops tied down indefinitely in Europe. But he said he recognizes that Western European nations might be in sight. Wilson's statement caused such a furor abroad that President Eisenhower and Secretary State Dulles made re-

"We need the European Defense Community and until Western European armament can be completed, I believe we will have to make some commitments," he said.

Humphrey said he wasn't committing that any specified number of U. S. divisions should be kept abroad. He said new weapons coming off the assembly lines should permit re-evaluation of the size of the forces later on.

This was the stand taken by Secretary of Defense Wilson when he said recently that an eventual reduction of U. S. forces abroad assuring statements that there are no plans for such a reduction. Wilson thereupon said "he was not talking about the present — but of sometime in the future."

WHITTIER, Calif. (UP) — Police were undecided today whether a strange gunman who answered an insurance adjuster's car for sale advertisement and then killed him was a psychopath or a hired murderer.

Andrew J. Kmiec, 33, Beverly Hills, Calif., was killed in his car Saturday night as a woman companion watched helplessly.

The woman, Dolly Ann McCormick, 21, said Kmiec picked her up for a dinner date Saturday, but stopped first to meet the stranger.

"The man said he liked the car but wanted his wife to see it first," Miss McCormick told sheriff's deputies. At the stranger's request, Kmiec drove to South Whittier, she said. There he suddenly pulled a gun.

"Andy pleaded with him to take his money and the car but not to shoot him," Miss McCormick said. "But he said he was tired by an enemy to kill Andy and was getting well paid for it. He told me to stop on a lonely road, turned and then shot Andy three times."

She said she fled and ran down the road.

The case took a new turn late last night when James Parks, Miss McCormick's cousin with whom she makes her home, said a man telephoned and threatened "Dolly, we're going to get you."

Parks asked for police protection after the call.

He said the caller hung up immediately after making the threat. He spoke to Parks' wife, apparently thinking it was Miss McCormick, Parks said.

Deputies found Kmiec's body by the side of the road. They ruled out robbery as a motive when more than $30 was found in his pockets. The car had disappeared, and an all-points bulletin immediately was sent out for the killer, described as of average height, blond and between 45 and 50 years old.

The car was a 1953 yellow Mercury convertible with Indiana license plates CA-235.

Sheriff's Capt. K. E. Irving said "maybe we're dealing with a psychopathic killer — I don't know yet."

Miss McCormick, from Prairie Grove, Ark., attended the University of Arkansas for two years and worked in a store in Fayetteville, Ark., after leaving school.

She came to California last September with another girl and became a secretary in an aircraft plant.

Sheriff's Capt. K. E. Irving said "maybe we're dealing with a psychopathic killer — I don't know yet."

Miss McCormick, from Prairie Grove, Ark., attended the University of Arkansas for two years and worked in a store in Fayetteville, Ark., after leaving school.

She came to California last September with another girl and became a secretary in an aircraft plant.

WHITTIER, Calif. (UP) — Police were undecided today whether a strange gunman who answered an insurance adjuster's car for sale advertisement and then killed him was a psychopath or a hired murderer.

Andrew J. Kmiec, 33, Beverly Hills, Calif., was killed in his car Saturday night as a woman companion watched helplessly.

The woman, Dolly Ann McCormick, 21, said Kmiec picked her up for a dinner date Saturday, but stopped first to meet the stranger.

"The man said he liked the car but wanted his wife to see it first," Miss McCormick told sheriff's deputies. At the stranger's request, Kmiec drove to South Whittier, she said. There he suddenly pulled a gun.

"Andy pleaded with him to take his money and the car but not to shoot him," Miss McCormick said. "But he said he was tired by an enemy to kill Andy and was getting well paid for it. He told me to stop on a lonely road, turned and then shot Andy three times."

She said she fled and ran down the road.

The case took a new turn late last night when James Parks, Miss McCormick's cousin with whom she makes her home, said a man telephoned and threatened "Dolly, we're going to get you."

Parks asked for police protection after the call.

He said the caller hung up immediately after making the threat. He spoke to Parks' wife, apparently thinking it was Miss McCormick, Parks said.

Deputies found Kmiec's body by the side of the road. They ruled out robbery as a motive when more than $30 was found in his pockets. The car had disappeared, and an all-points bulletin immediately was sent out for the killer, described as of average height, blond and between 45 and 50 years old.

The car was a 1953 yellow Mercury convertible with Indiana license plates CA-235.

Grid Wash Is Favorite Monday Deal

By BOB HOODING
(For Will Grimsley)

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out Monday's football wash and don't forget the earplugs to shut out the noise.

A guy named Frank Varrichello who plays tackle for Notre Dame made the most significant entry if not the loudest at South Bend to help the nation's No. 1 team get a 14-10 tie with Iowa.

With gestures to go with his howling that would have pleased the most severe drama critic, Varrichello managed to get the clock stopped with just one second to go in the first half and the ball in Irish possession of the Iowa 12.

Varrichello held his head in apparent pain when the officials took time out to see that he got to the sideline. That gave Notre Dame time for more play and Ralph Guglielmi, obliged with a scoring pass to Dan Shannon.

THE BELL H-13 HELICOPTER is explained to two ROTC cadets from East Texas State Teachers' College, Commerce, Texas, by Major Ray D. Andrews at Cary AFB, San Marcos, Cadet Colonel Jesse De La Torre (center) and Cadet John Pate (right) and other members of the Mitchell Grenadiers, ROTC drill team, toured Cary AFB Saturday, Nov. 14, prior to appearing in the half-time ceremonies at the Southeast-East Texas football game that afternoon at San Marcos. Cadet Colonel De La Torre, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean De La Torre, 6401 Avenue O, Galveston, while Cadet Pate is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Pate, of Hope, Arkansas.

There was plenty of bellowing from the Southern California bench when UCLA's Paul Cameron ran with the ball after signaling for a fair catch on a punt. Rogers that perfect Paul fumbled the ball, scopped it up and made about 10 yards. But the officials didn't listen to the objections—they ruled it was a free ball after the fumble.

After that the Trojans watched the Trojans back through their wooden horse for a 1-0 victory and a Rose Bowl trip.

And the Georgia Tech crowd roared its disapproval at Atlanta when they felt the officials had allowed an important lateral from Duke's Lloyd Canale to Jerry Barber after a whistle apparently had blown. Billy Texas' 40-yard punt return later settled the argument and the game in Tech's favor, 14-10.

A few coaches could be heard to moan about a play they didn't want to work—the one Colum picked off five of Bobby Garrett's blax Lou Little has dubbed "the buses as the Bears gained a 21-21 well-directed intercepted pass." ... the Southern Methodist got knocked down started on its two scoring end out of Southwest Conference games as the result of pass interception when Baylor's Cotton Duncanson, Stanford lost hope for victory stole a pass in his end zone the Rose Bowl when California to preserve a 27-21, Baylor lead.

Ford to Explain Equalization

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Education Commissioner Arch W. Ford is to appear before the Arkansas Legislative Council in December to explain what he has accomplished toward equalization of White and Negro schools and expanding his department.

The council voted to request Ford's appearance during a meeting here Saturday, at which it also declined to act on a proposal concerning the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs and deferred action on tax study and state printing proposals.

Rep. Paul Van Dusen introduced the resolution concerning Ford's appearance saying that the commissioner previously had announced he would "personally" supervise a reorganization of the State Department of Education, which could reduce personnel, save money and at the same time provide greater services.

Nebraska's Ray Novak had to chase a bad center pass that went into his end zone and punt the ball into his own backfield and plans back over his head. It landed on an equalization of White and Negro schools, compliance with an expected opportunity on a future but the U. S. Supreme Court ruling on Southerners won anyway 30-7. In the equalization, and replacement of hats of department one may save five million dollars in state aid to Dick Carr of Columbia who he voted by the 1953 Legislature, but came the only major college play which is not expected to be available to 20-60 minutes in all his able from the same sources in 1953.

Security Boys Skeptical Over Spy Ring

By HERBERT FOSTER
WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Government security officials expressed skepticism today about a Senate investigator's statement that two ring may still be operating in federal agencies.

"They said there is 'no reason to get excited' about the 'possibility' cited by Robert Morris, counsel of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, in a television interview last night.

Morris said there is "reason to believe" that the pattern of Communist infiltration, demonstrated in the 1946 Harry Dexter White State Department case, "still exists." He noted that Elizabeth Bentley has testified there were four espionage networks active in Washington when she broke with the Reds in 1945. "So far as we know only two have been exposed," Morris said. "That is not saying there are still two rings in government, but certainly there is a possibility two are still in government."

Morris also said, without charge, that the Senate investigators have collected evidence which "very definitely" could lead to prosecution of some persons on espionage charges.

A spokesman said the Justice Department would have "no immediate comment" on Morris' remarks.

Government espionage experts recalled that Miss Bentley gave names, dates and details of two of the spy rings when she testified before congressional investigating committees in 1942, but could tell little about the other two except that she had been told they existed.

Informants strongly implied that the two rings of which Miss Bentley told had been told they existed.

Morris appeared on the National Broadcasting Company's Meet the Press television program. A member of the interviewing panel, Lytle C. Wilson, Washington manager of the United Press, asked whether the Senate subcommittee is "accumulating evidence that reasonably could be said to lead toward the conviction of one or more individuals for espionage."

"Well, I think so," Morris replied. "Very definitely."

"That could flow from the hearings you are having?" Wilson asked.

"That's right, particularly with respect to some of the witnesses who testified in executive (secret) sessions," Morris said.

Morris said the subcommittee is trying to trace the pattern of Red infiltration into the government during the Roosevelt and Truman administration so as to "expose the present infiltration which there is reason to believe still exists."
